Preface

THIS volume of Bibliotheca Celtica, the seventh, covers five years, 1919–1923. Like its immediate predecessor, its appearance has been delayed by the great war and its aftermath.

In response to the appeal made, much of the fugitive literature dealing with the war, records of memorial services, rolls of honour, and similar publications, has been sent to the Library for preservation and record, but many people do not yet realise the importance of preserving this documentary evidence of the part played by the Welsh people in the great war.

Like former volumes, the body of the work is arranged in one alphabetical sequence by author. The remainder of the book comprises the usual lists of Newspapers and Periodicals, Reports of Societies and Institutions, and Eisteddfod Programmes.

At the end of the volume appear supplementary lists of Celtic publications issued during the years 1909–1918, but not previously recorded, and publications issued during 1919–1923 received too late for inclusion in the body of the work.

A list of Pseudonyms occurring in the volume is given on pages 453–456.

There are several features of interest in this volume. In the lists of Additional Books will be found many publications, especially pamphlets, from the collection of the late Principal J. H. Davies, M.A., copies of which were not previously in the Library. This is not the place to describe the Collection of the late Principal, but it is worth while recording here that he was just as industrious in collecting modern Welsh books and pamphlets as he was in securing early Welsh manuscripts and printed books. Of his success this volume bears witness.

Other features of unusual interest, although, strictly speaking, outside the scope and purpose of this volume of Bibliotheca Celtica, are the lists of Indian and Chinese books which appear on pages 457–468. The Library is indebted to Sir J. Herbert Lewis, G.B.E., for a large selection of the literature issued by the Welsh Mission Bookroom, in India, and to the Rev. C. G. Sparham, Secretary of the China Advisory Council of the London Missionary Society, for the works and translations of the late Dr. Griffith John. To collect and preserve records of the work of Welshmen throughout the world, and in all languages, is an important function of the Library.

Sincere thanks are due to the Welsh publishers and printers, authors, and friendly correspondents, who have helped to secure many of the publications recorded, and to the Rev. D. E. Jones, late of Aijal, and the Rev. C. G. Sparham, for revising the entries relating to the Indian and Chinese books.

APPENDIX.

The National Library endeavours to collect, for preservation and reference, all publications by or associated with Welshmen throughout the world.

Through Sir J. Herbert Lewis, G.B.E., the President (1926–7), the Library has received a large selection of the literature issued by the Welsh Mission Bookroom in India, including editions of the Scriptures, Hymns, Reading Books and elementary Text Books on Geography, Geometry, History, etc., mostly in the Lushai dialect of India.

By the courtesy of the Rev. C. G. Sparham, Secretary of the China Advisory Council of the London Missionary Society, the Library has recently received translations of the Scriptures into Chinese by Dr. Griffith John, and those publications of the Religious Tract Society for China which were written by Dr. Griffith John.

In many cases the dates of publication lie outside the period covered by this volume, yet both the collections are included in order to draw attention to this aspect of the functions of the National Library.
